ABSTRACT

Carotenoids are extracted from plant matter by mixing the plant matter and water to obtain a mixture of no greater than 10° Bx, crushing the mixture to obtain a pulp and a serum, and extracting the pulp to obtain a carotenoid containing plant oleoresin.